Administrator's Sale!

ON THE first Tuesday in October, between the legal hours of sale, we will sell at the courthouse door, a tract of land consisting of seventy-six. (76) acres, being a part of the estate of J. T. Jordan, deceased, and the property is located on Forrest road about two miles beyond Lakewood Heights. Forrest road about two miles beyond Lakewood Heights. Forrest road runs off of the Jonesboro road right at Cornell station. This tract has extensive frontage along the road, South river runs through it, and it will make a splendid purchase for someone. There are a number of heirs interested, and the terms are eash. The property is being sold for the purpose of distribution.

Fall Millinery Opening

Monday, Tuesday & Wednesday we formally present the new

Paris & New York Hats

together with many of our own equally beautiful creations.

-Formal opening display tomorrow of the genuine and exclusive mn and winter styles that can only be seen by a visit to Rich's.

The best of Paris Millinery is always lovely; but we think beauty and smartness were never before so successfully combined as in these new Hats.

Exquisite malerials have been made by master artists into Hats which when correctly posed on the head will bring the exclamation: "Ah, that is Paris!"

Among the Paris Hats we note original Models from George'te, Maison Lewis, Louise and Varon. Kurzman of New York is represented by half a dozen or more hats, as, too, is Joseph.

- We shall not attempt description. Who can really describe a beautiful Hat?

Harmony, however, is the keynote. Harmony in line, color and trimmings, hats are soft and right in weight. Simplicity rules. "Delvets and plushes are the favored mat Coura and Paradise feathers, Skunk and the new Fitch fur; and, metal French flowers lead in mings. Black and quiet rich colors have the call.

The exhibit is the most important that has yet been made. The hats have been placed in a per settling of Palms and Beauty. We shall be very glad to have you see them. (Millinery, Second Floor.)

Showing the Glorious New Sılks

A Mast rful, Co'orful Exhibition of the World's Most Fashionable Fabric in Bewildering Variety

These silks are being used by the greatest Paris dressmakers, and they are so steeped with Eastern luxury, so colorful, that it thrills the heart to see them.

Paris is employing them for coats to wear with plain silk or lingerie gowns, for draped wraps, for linings, for artistic robes and negligues for trimmings, for blouses.

Many of them have been imported expressly for Rich's and can be seen only here in Atlanta. A brief review of the stock shows:

With Scores of Reproduced French Models
The art of costuming a woman rightly may be classed as one of the fine arts, and most skilled artists of today are the French people, who live among their museums, their galleries, and their traditions of beauty, with constant promptings to create new loveliness out of the old.
Our exclusive New York suppliers, each a star in the tailoring world, import Paris models, with full right to copy—and hundreds of the wonderful fashions are here for you to see and admire. These Paris-copied suits are priced from $29.75 to $90.

We also show, of course, extensive lines of suits—strictly of American origination—at $15, $19.75, $25 to $50.

Here's a Real Example

In the city of Providence, Rhode Island, is a store that does the second largest retail men's clothing business in the world.

Take the ratio of its sales to the population of the city and its volume is almost unbelievable.

This business has been built up on Nationally Advertised brands of clothing—largely through daily newspaper advertising

The merchant saw the advantage of co-operation. While the manufacturers made known the merits of their brands, the mer-chant used his home newspapers to em-phasize the fact that he "Kept them."

A dozen other instances of this same kind could be cited.

Mr. Manufacturer, dealers are anxious to co-operate with you. They will help you if you will help them to create a demand by advertising in the mediums they use—the newspapers.

The Bureau of Advertising, American Newspaper Publishers 'Association, World Building, New York, will be glad to give you data in regard to a co-operative news-paper campaign.

Kill the Cotton Tax.

Kill the Cotton Tax.

So admirable a work of legislation as the Democratic tariff Nill, designed as it is to uncourage individual enterprise and to promote the common welfare of the American people, should not be tairted with an amendment which in effect will foster a new and dangerous monopoly and bring irreparable hordeslip upon homework of thousands of our citisens.

That is the character of the so-called Clarke amendment which proposes to tax, at the rate of fity cents a bale, all cotton sold for future delivery. The Senate has ill-advisedly allowed this perincious clause to creep into the tariff measure. The Democrats of the House should now insist unswervingly that it be wilminated. It is foreign to the entire purpose and spirit of true tariff reform. It is at variance with all those liberal policies for which the Wilson administration stands. It is un-Democratic, the number of the control of the contr riance with all those liberal policies for which the Wilson administration stands. It is un-Democratic, unwise and unjust.

The public is so familiar with the general merits of this issue that they need not now be discussed in detail. Suffect it is say that the proposed tax, by depriving cotton merchants of the so-called "hedge" protection, would force out of the earstet the rank and file of small buyers and thereby concentrate the power of merchandising cotton in the hands of a few large interests. The effect of this upon the cotton producer is easily horeseen. Even should a considerable number of buyers remain in business and pay the almost problibitive tax on future contracts, they would naturally discount the price they heretofore have paid the farmer and thus at the farmer's expense issuare themselves against loss.

In any event, it would be the cotton grower whould bear the brunt of this unjust tax. It would be from his labor, his carnings that the tribute would suffer. The avivage merchant and manufactures would be formed by the heavest testered.

be from his labor, his carnings that the tribute would ultimately be drawn. Cotton interests as a whole would suffer. The average merchant and manifecturer would be damaged but the heaviest injury of all would be visited upon the Southern farmer. Though the avowed purpose of the Clarke amendment is to prevent gambling in futures, it is papingly insincere, for while prescribing a probibitive tax for cotton futures, it takes no secount whateover of hedging in corn and wheat and other commodities. Were the proposed amendments at all consistent it would apply allke to every commodity in which contracts for future delivery are made. Instruct, however, it singles out for penalty the one staple which above all others is most subject to continual and violent fluctuations in price and in which the bedge protection is most necessary.

The Senate recognized the danger of such a scheme when it provided that the proposed tax scheme when it provided that the proposed tax scheme when it provided that the proposed tax the final moment the Senate became cautious, though it is to be respected that it did not fully accede to the logical pleas of leading Southern Senators and the in the legical pleas of leading Southern Senators and kill the amendment outright. That, however, is now clearly the duty of the House Democrats. Let them stand firmly against the Clarke amendment and it will die a natural and deserved death.

The coal dealer probably wonders why they call them the melancholy days.

Tammany's Probable Defeat.

Haillianly S PTODADIC Deteat.

The prospect of a united and successful opposition to Tammany in New York's nayorally election has grown distinctly more assuring. The sudden death of Mayor Gaynor has narrowed the context of John Purry Michell, nomines of the independent Damocrats, the Republicans and "Progressives" on see hand and Edward A. McCall, Tammany's nomines, et the other. The line is thus drawn unwaverlingly between the forces of good government and corrupt ring rule.

The results of previous New York City elections show that the anti-Tammany vote is much larger than the Tammany vote. Thus in the last election more than three bundres, and thirty-one thousand ballots were cast against the Tammany candidate for many and only some two hundred and fifty thousand were cast for Jam; but owing to the fact that the anti-Tammany vote was divided between two candidates, it was inteffectual.

The Basic Principle

Of the Currency Bill.

The Pasis of the Currency Bill.

The overshadowing issue of the banking and currency bill now before Congress is whether control of the nation's mostary resources, and the particular groups of financiers or shall be vested in the Government itself to the end that banks may be "the instruments, not the masters of business." Other questions of more or less moment are involved but this is the one great principle embedded in the pending bill; and on no other basis may financial interests expect to secure a new system of banking and currency, better suited to their own and the common country's mode than the cruck, outworn system which now prevails.

The need of prompt reform is universally recognized. The bankers themselves have been most insistent upon a change. They realize more keenly, perhaps, than anyone else how besential is such legislation to the security and progress of business. Yet, when the opportunity for constructive reform is ripe some of them are urging delay and are holding out for impossible compromises. Some of them, indeed, seem to forget that laws must be framed not to the benefit of particular interests but for the pendic or the pendic of particular interests but for the pendic or the pendic of particular interests but for the pendic or the pendic of the pendic or the pendic of particular interests but for the pendic or the pendic of the pendic or the pendic of the pendic or the pendic of the pendic or the pendic or the pendic pend for the benefit of particular interests out for the purple's common good.

No one doubts that under the system proposed by the Glass-Owen currency bill certain banking interests will be far less powerful than now, but everynow ho views the measure with an open mind believes that the business of the country as a whole will be far more stable and free. That, indeed, is the prime purpose of the administration measure. Were it designed to serve bankers alone, it would be unworthy a moment's thought from Congress and certainly it would not receive a moment's support from the rank and file of the people. Whatever its details may be, any bill that passes the Democratic Congress and receives President Wilson's approval must embudy the one essential principle of Government instead of private control for the new system.

This provision is as wise from an economic standpoint as it is necessary from a pointcal standpoint as it is necessary from a pointcal standpoint as it is necessary from a point of the contransposition of the present banking and currency system lies largely in the fact that it has no responsible or trustworthy control. It is under the dominion of particular groups of men and particular centers of finance but there is no central force by which its complex machinery may be driven to serve the nation's common needs. It works amouthly cough for a favored few but it scarcely works at all for the great mass of interests on which steady, enduring prosperity depends.

The fact is our banking affairs have been left virtually ungoverned; for certainly as regime that places the country's commerce and industry and have ever they so minded, could were create a panie—certainly such a regime is not government, rather, it is narachy and choses. And in times of and who, were they so minded, could vere create a pain—certainly such a regime is not government, rather, it is anarchy and chaos. And in times of storm or stress, it leaves the average business in-terest, whether a bank, a store, a factory or a farm, without refuge or protection. The unrestrained will of individuals is the very antithesis of government, and the gravest menace to freedom that can be con-ceived.

Yet, this is the condition that will co Yet, this is the condition that will continue so long as banking and currency affairs remain under private centrol. It is to remedy this great evil and to swert consequent disasters that the measure now before Congress is designed. The bill provides, among other things, for the establishment of twelve so-called regional reserve banks in different parts of the country and for a supervisory federal board through which the Government itself will exercise competent control over the workings of the new system.

It has been objected that such a board would be It has been objected that such a board would pos-sess under power, and furthermore that active bank-sess under power, and furthermore that active bank-ers are to be excluded from its membership. The power of this board in its particular sphere would be no greater than that of the interstate Commerce Commission over the country's transportation busi-neae. Time was when interstate commerce was com-paratively without Government supervision, but today the railroads themselves realize that the federal commission is bejuful to them a well as to the pub-lic. It has established certainty and order where uncertainty and dangerous conduction one existed and certainty and dangerous conduction one existed and commission is helpful to them as well as to the public. It has established certainty and order where uncertainty and danserous continuis on one existed and not once has it been tainted with anything like particular histories. The above of authorities and the exclusion of active bankers from the proposed board is so obviously proper that it leaves little room for discussion. The fact that a man is experienced in banking would in no wise disquality him for service on the federal board; but if he were identified with some particular banking institution, he would then be clearly incapacitated for public duties of these clearly incapacitated for public duties of the clearly incapacitated for public duties of the clear the clear incapacitated for public duties of the clear the clear of the clear for the clear of the

Fascinating Fears.

Fascinating Fears.

If we teek to heart all the warnings of those "searce and authents follows," the statisticians, we could exarcely sleep for auxiety. One of them tells us that the earth's sore of teel is dwindling so rapidly that sonner or later everyone north of the Tropic of Cancer will tran tate an icidic; another, that the fearsome decline in the birth rate threatens to extinguish the human species; another, that tight shoes are alowly hot survey eliminating man's fifth toe; another, that the femiliast movement is steadily robbing the houns of woman and woman, of the home; another, that the growth of cittles is eating out the very vitals of the race; and still another, not content with such ordinary worries, sits him down and calculates that within the next thirty billion years the blessed sun itself will become a cheerless cinder so that the life of this once jocund planet will be swallowed up in everlasting night.

All these predictions are keenly interesting. We overlasting night.

All these predictions are keenly interesting. We listen to them with a certain grim delight, like a child who hangs, frightened yet pleased, on a story of goblins and bears. Our instinct for adventure thrilis at the suggestion of an age when the mercury will fail below zero never to rise again; and the mind's eye peers with a sort of fascination upon great regiments of our faroff posterity pleking their frostbitten way to new homes along the equator. Most people, too, have a saving sense of optimism in the face of the darkest future. They feel, without doubting the impressive figures of the savants, that somehow a good fairy will step in at the last minute mehow a good fairy will step in at the last minute and set things right; or, as a seasoned old Kentucky warrior once expressed it: "When things get bad, they are powerfully hard to straighte: out, but when they get damsed bad, they just cut loose and other processing."

It should be remembered, however, that there are statisticians and statisticians, and that those who are faithfully reporting our immediate Genuinely affairs or tendencies must be heeded. States is lagging far behind the increase in population we can but be seriously concerned, for this is a matter that comes straight home to all men's 'business and bosoms,' affecting the cost of living and standards of living and giving rise to any number of economic and social problems.

There are twenty million more people in the Unitstates today than in 1901, twenty million more mouths to be fed. Yet, the wheat crop of 1913 is only six million bushels more than that of 1901. The total acreage of wheat in this country is little fany greater than it was twelvy pears ago. The same condition is proportionately true of many other cod harvents, while the production of meat is relatively very much less than it was a generation ago.

same condition is proportionately true of many other tool harvests, while the production of meet is relatively very much less than it was a generation ago.
"Agricultural products," assy one canalyst of these figures, group more valuable because the quantity rated for each person steadily declines. So when it comes to measuring in dollars the value of what was brought out of American forms this year, the total may rival that of last year, which broke all preceding records. What the country desires, however, is not deaver crops but greater ones. It counts more bushels and more tons, rather than higher quotations."

Most economic problems and many social problems are fundamentally problems of the soil. Agraculture is the one great source of industry and commerce. Good farms and abundant harvests do not nall circumstances mean good times and a contented people, for man-made ills may shut the door on attural bissenings. It is widen, however, that from this time forward the welfare of the American people will depend very largely upon improvement in farming methods and the consequent increase in the food supply.

This is a matter of peculiar concern to Georgia.

Few States are so richtly stores with treasures of climate and soil; few are so wondrously adapted to the production of all the necessaries of life. Yet, the people not be undered and seventy-two million dollars in buying from distant quaters such products as corn, oats, meat and other food supplies which could have been raiseed easily and cheaply at home. It is estimated that this State lacks over thirty-seven million dollars annually of making enough money out of its cotton crop to pay for its foreign purchases of food.

So long as this condition of affairs prevails our so long as this condition of affairs prevalls our drams cannot attain that missure of independence which is their natural due; nor can our commercial and industrial enterprises progress as they should. # Find an Abandoned Mine and Work It. By HERBERT KAUFMAN.

An American engineer has just discovered a Mexican City the streets of which are actually paved with gold.

Time was when the neighboring hills were assiduously mined. Aztec and Spaniard in turn dug into the rich rock and tore fortunes from the glittering quartz.

As tunnel after tunnel ran its tortuous course through the mountains and ton by ton the treasure was reft from its concealment, the diggings were gradually abandoned, and at last men declared that the mines had "petered out."

Meanwhile the towns-folk had strewn their streets with the tailings of the primitive smelters and built their dobe houses from the refuse-laden clay.

Where once fortune strode and strewed glittering benisons poverty stalked with her cronies, gloom and melancholy.

Want succeeded plenty; the prosperous few deserted the village and only the peon and the faithful padres were left behind.

Here where insolent cabelleros and proud hidalgos formerly galloped on blooded barbs the half-breed was left to ride by upon his miserable burro and the wheedling lamentations of tattered mendicants advertised the utter destitution of the community.

Then came science of the searching eye, "and over night a miracle was wrought."

Fabulous wealth was suddenly disclosed in the crumbling bricks of wretched hovels. The moldering walls of abandoned gardens-even the weed-grown slag heaps produced as much as five hundred dollars of gold to the ton, when modern chemistry subjected them to advanced methods of reduction and refinement. Thus does opportunity reveal herself. Never are her resources exhausted. There is no bound to her bounties. But they are not for the hopeless, the unseeing or the quitter.

They who do not search seldom find.

The incurious mind can never recognize fortune. Every road to everywhere is "paved with gold."

But men who cling to obsolete tools and rules and who estimate the possibilities of tomorrow with the education and view points of yesterday, are doomed to penury and failure.

Knowledge rules the twentieth century.

The lords of the earth are no longer the happy-go-lucky ad. venturers nor the strong-armed dolts.

The thinker is universally in command. But unapplied knowledge is as useless as any other unharnessed force.

Even Niagara advertised its potentialities for uncalculated

Since the first human looked upon the spuming force that today lights a billion lamps and turns a million wheels, there has lurked in the waterfall as much potency as in 1913.

Myriads of men heard the crash of the torrent and watched the titanic rush of her waters, before there came one with sufficient imagination to visualize the stream of gold always pouring over her brink, and with sufficient doggedness to transmute his dream into a reality.

There's always a chance to make good. There's always a which incompetence has abandoned, because the "ore" "mine" petered out." has '

And always there will follow in the footsteps of the inefficient, and careless, and ignorant, and dull-brained a keenerwitted and hope-guided newcomer who will extract prosperity from "abandoned opportunities."

Every business, every profession is susceptible to betterment. best information of the past is crude and inexact, when measured by the standards of the present.
